Appointments for Special Committees or Projects

Association Annual Conference

The President shall preserve communications and strong liaison with the State Conference Chair and the Local Planning Committee. He/she may elect to attend any or all planning meetings.

The President shall submit to the State Conference Chair, an annual report of the association to be included in the Conference Brochure.

The President shall present awards, or delegate such recognition, to all honorees whether Association members or otherwise. He/she presents the recognition to the Immediate Past President.

The President shall preside at the Head Table for all dinners or major conference sessions. The President will also be present at the President's Reception.

He/she may call a special Executive Committee, Leadership Assembly, or other meetings during the conference. He/she will preside over the final "Conference Report" meeting on the last day of the conference, or as may be thereafter arranged.

Advocacy and External Representation

IN STATE: As principal officer of the OAEA, the President shall encourage all levels of the Membership to communicate directly with him / her on any matter of concern. The President may then refer such information to another officer or group for action and / or advisement.

The President shall, whenever appropriate use his / her influence to preserve, promote, and protect the interests of the Association and all its members. He / she must at all times be vigilant and ready to institute personal and collective representation in support of those interests. The President may, by letter or telephone, communicate directly with Regional Directors or others in matters of urgency.

The President should familiarize him / herself with identities or persons of influence whose activities or pronouncements may affect the interests of the Association. In this regard, he / she should call upon support from the NAEA Executive Director where appropriate promotional materials, news releases, or even personal letters from NAEA may be of assistance in Ohio.

NATIONAL: The President should similarly be alert to the National Art Education Association States Assembly activities. He / she must personally attend all sessions or appoint knowledgeable and politically astute delegates. The President or such delegates, must always be ready to enter the Delegates Assembly political arena when it becomes necessary to protect the interests of Ohio.

IN-STATE LIAISON ACTIVITIES: The President shall develop fruitful liaison with other professional groups such as the Ohio School Board Association, Ohio Alliance for Arts Education, and others.

He / she should also be active in seeking supportive action from organizational members with similar interests, when an issue of limited concern yet common to one or two such groups emerge.

FUNDING: The President has the responsibility of bringing to vote such matters of fiscal support, by the Association, of other groups as may become apparent. These might include the Governor's Youth Art Exhibition, the Ohio Alliance, etc...

The President should similarly explore, personally or through representatives, possibilities of funding Association activities from the Ohio Education Association, the Ohio Arts Council, the Ohio Humanities Council, etc...

RECOGNITION OF OUTGOING PAST PRESIDENT: Receives plaque or gift of recognition at the conclusion of the term ($50-$75) to be presented by the President.

Summation:

More specific responsibilities are outlined in the OAEA By-Laws and the Prevailing Procedures.

Many matters will arise during a Presidential term that cannot be spelled out in a job description. In such cases, it is well for the incumbent to seek advice from a wide constituency, from past officers to local members. In the final analysis, the President must make the decision and accept the consequences.
